COMMENTS

The FX series welcomes a new protagonist with outboard propulsion and a high-performance hull, suitable even for rough seas.

A boat as complete as the larger ones in terms of details, equipment and quality of materials. Its contained size does not compromise the elegance of its lines nor the wealth of features available for guests on board.

Both in the "leisure" configuration and in the version adapted for "fishing", the FX240 offers elegance, comfort and multiple possibilities, thanks to the bow area that can be equipped with a comfortable sofa leaning against the gunwale or left uncluttered for true fishing enthusiasts.

As on the 270, the console and the helm station are finished with great precision, even in the smallest details, to be perfectly integrated and fully functional. Here too, the available space has been used to create a small dressing room on the lower deck, which can be fitted with a toilet.

For the FX240 in "fishing" version is also available an elegant awning with polished steel tubular structure, equipped with fishing rod holders.
